The image shows a well-lit outdoor courtyard of a restaurant. The courtyard is paved with light-colored stone tiles. In the center, there is a long wooden table with a striped blue and white cushioned bench. Several round tables are set with white tablecloths, plates, glasses, and silverware. The tables are surrounded by white chairs with dark metal frames. The courtyard is enclosed by a building with light-colored walls and blue-framed windows and doors. The building has a classic architectural style with decorative elements. The sky is not visible, but the lighting suggests it is daytime. In the center of the image, there is a white rectangular overlay containing the restaurant's logo.

LA
CHAMBRE
BLEUE
DANI GARCÍA

A NEW RESTAURANT VIBRANT CONCEPT IN PARIS

Created by Dani García, one of the most influential Andalusian chefs today. Named La Chambre Bleue in reference to Pablo Picasso's painting, himself born in Malagà, the restaurant takes its guests on a Mediterranean journey with fish, seafood, and other refined Iberian specialities, combined to a French touch for an exclusive experience.

The image shows a highly decorative ceiling. At the center is a large, irregularly shaped fresco depicting a landscape with soft, pastel clouds in shades of green, blue, and orange. The fresco is framed by multiple layers of ornate, gold-colored moldings. The outermost frame is a wide, decorative border featuring intricate scrollwork and floral motifs. The ceiling is further embellished with two large, multi-tiered chandeliers made of clear glass and crystals, one on the left and one on the right. The overall aesthetic is classical and opulent.
